At Joseph Cooke House, we want you to feel at home.

Our facility boasts spacious single rooms (each with their own ensuite), wide corridors and multiple sun-lit sitting areas. There's always something happening in the shared activity areas, with a large TV and a piano to keep you entertained. The on-site chapel provides a place for quiet reflection, and you are always welcome to attend the regular mass services.

Take a stroll through the established gardens that surround the home or stop for a cuppa in one of the many outdoor areas, including the recently renovated internal courtyards.

Co-located with Southern Cross Care's Thomas Perrott Village, moving into Joseph Cooke House means being part of a vibrant local community. The home is close to public transport, shops, a medical centre and other amenities. There's also plenty of on-site parking for when family and friends come by to visit.

Residential Aged Care Fees

Depending on your financial situation, your care and accommodation costs may be partially or fully covered by the Government. An assessment of your assets and income (also known as a means assessment) determines what you may need to pay for care and accommodation.

- Basic daily fee: An amount that everyone pays for day-to-day living expenses such as meals, power and laundry.
- Means-tested care fee: A contribution that some people pay towards the cost of their care, determined by a means assessment.
- Accommodation costs: An amount that some people pay to contribute towards or cover the full costs of their room, depending on their means assessment. If you are required to pay for your accommodation costs, you have three payment options:
 1. Refundable Accommodation Deposit (RAD) which is paid as a lump sum upon entry into aged care and is refunded when you leave.
 2. Daily Accommodation Payment (DAP) which is paid periodically, eg monthly.
 3. A combination of RAD and DAP, where you make an upfront payment for a portion of the RAD and the remainder is paid as a DAP.

Paying for residential aged care may seem complicated, but our experienced team is here to help.
